

Computerii Wreckum Havocous

(Pron: Com-pute-er-eye Wreck-um Have-ok-us)

The most common term given to this little beast is the ferocious chip eating Computer Bug or gremlin. He's rapidly becoming the single most significant threat to modern industry and commerce.

Because of his voracious appetite for every conceivable piece of computer componentry, he's totally unpredictable. He strikes young and old without preference and there's not one single brand safe from his fearsome claws and razor-sharp teeth.

Although infinitely smaller than anything the human eye could possibly ever hope to see, Computerii Wreckum Havocous can always be detected after any computer break-down. By then of course it's far too late. The damage is done and he's off at the speed of light to claim his next victim. Sadly, networked PC's are most vulnerable to attack. This is, of course, no reason to assume stand-alone units should feel even remotely secure. Computerii Wreckum Havocous is already far too widespread.

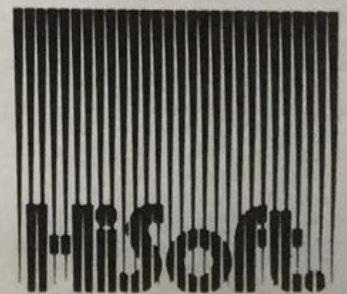

Whilst the foregoing disclosures may distress many computers, computer users can take heart in the fact that HiSoft Computers has discovered the world's first and only cure effective in the total control of this terrifying species.

It comes in the form of a special program called simply, HiCare Service.

Any further disclosures concerning its content in this public forum would most certainly jeopardise its effectiveness. Computerii Wreckum Havocous you see is indeed very, very intelligent.

For those readers mortally concerned about the future well-being of their equipment, might we suggest the urgent use of a telephonic device as far removed as possible from any computer. Close a door firmly behind you and dial the HiSoft number which would be most convenient to your company. When your call is answered simply ask for 'HiCare Service.' For God's sake do it now. Please don't delay.

HiCareService

We have a way with computers.